Early Literacy Tip

It's only natural for babies to chew on books. They chew on everything!
Our natural reaction is to say, "Oh no! Don't chew on that book!"
But that leaves the baby thinking it must not be good to explore books. Instead we can say,
"Oh, that book does look very tasty; let's take it out of your mouth and see what it says!"
Then start reading the book and talking about the pictures inside.
